CARNEGIE IS UPHELD BY ENGLISH STATUTE

Nothing in Law to Prevent British Subject From Being Citizen of United States.

BY LA MARQUE DE FONTENAY.

There is nothing in English law to prevent Andrew Carnegie from being at one and the same time a British subject and a citizen of the United States. It seems odd, indeed, that Reginald McKenna, King George's Secretary of State for the Home Department, when asked last week by Gilbert Thorne, M. P., and by his colleague in the House of Commons, the Marquis of Tullibardine, son of the Duke of Atholl, about the presence of Andrew Carnegie's name on the roll of voters of the Scotch parish of Dornoch, did not refer them to the statute known as the Naturalization Act of 1870.

This law provides that an alien may be naturalized and enjoy all the rights of a native born British subject of the United Kingdom without ceasing to be a citizen of the land of his birth.

In a notable case in which the nationality of a native of France, who had secured English naturalization, was made the cause of a legal issue, the High Court of Justice in London held that, according to the wording of the statute, the man concerned, while he had become an English citizen, still retained his French nationality, which he had not been required to abjure. In fact, that he was a citizen of the two countries; and this view was subsequently upheld by the French courts.

Now this law cuts both ways, and since Andrew Carnegie was born in Scotland, and has never abjured his allegiance to England, there is nothing on the English statute book to prevent his being a subject of the British crown when living in his native Scotland, nor from being a citizen of the United States when residing at his New York home, on Fifth Avenue and Central Park.

Andrew Carnegie came to America as a fourteen-year-old boy, and his father having either become naturalized at Pittsburgh, or having merely declared his intention of becoming a citizen, the future Laird of Skibo was exempted from the necessity of naturalization, or even of making the so-called declaration on attaining manhood, and on registration as a voter at Pittsburgh in elections, municipal, State and Federal.

A popular impression seems to prevail that England does not recognize the naturalization in foreign countries of her native-born citizens, and that she looks upon English citizenship as inalienable, no matter how much it may have been acquired for purposes of expediency. This is a mistake. A British citizen who secures letters of naturalization in the United States, or elsewhere abroad, specially renouncing his British allegiance, becomes, in no fact, an alien in the eyes of the English law, and subject to all the disabilities of an alien. In order to recover his British citizenship, he must secure letters of English naturalization, and fulfil all the formalities and requirements in connection with the long and tedious process, just as if he were a foreigner by birth. In fact, there is only one advantage which he enjoys above the foreign-born English citizen, namely, certain offices and dignities are open to him which are barred to British subjects of alien birth.

Moreover, an Englishwoman who marries a foreigner is held thereby to forfeit her nationality, and she must, of her husband exclusively, and Lady Sybil Cutting, daughter of the Earl of Desart, and widow of the late William Bayard Cutting, Jr., of New York, has within the last few weeks been freed from the crown, through the Secretary of State for the Home Department, after due legal process, a certificate restoring to her her British nationality. In the United States the methods employed in this respect are much more cumbersome. For when President Grant's daughter, Nellie, after the death of her English husband, Algernon Porter, returned to the land of her birth, and wished to recover her American nationality, a special act of Congress, dated May 18, 1898, was deemed to be necessary for the purpose. She is now Mrs. Frank Hatch Jones, and makes her home in Chicago.

In order that my readers may not misunderstand me about Andrew Carnegie's dual nationality, I would repeat that the English law of 1870 renders dual nationality possible, since the Law of Scotch citizenship, in this country abjured his allegiance to the British crown. Had he done so—had he taken out letters of naturalization in due form in the United States—he would have, ipso facto, forfeited his rights as a native-born British subject.

Germans, according to legislation now in process of enactment by the German government, are to be even still more liberally treated in the way of dual citizenship. For, no matter how much they may have secured foreign citizenship in the New World, and have abjured their allegiance to the Kaiser on this side of the Atlantic, their German citizenship is revived automatically immediately they set foot once more on German soil. This is intended to encourage repatriation.

Some enthusiasts on the subject of British-American, Franco-American and German-American friendship have suggested that the people of these respective nations should enjoy the right of citizenship in one another's

An Appeal to Those Suffering With Rheumatism

My Statement:

If you are a sufferer from rheumatism I know that this will be of much interest. I know if you have a relative, or friend, suffering the terrible tortures of this many-headed monster—rheumatism—that it will be equally interesting.

You would give almost any price to be relieved.

There are many so-called "cures" advertised—read what most of them require: Take three or four times a day, internally, some remedy made up with strong drugs, which I would call "dope."

Read what these "cures" claim is the cause of rheumatism—uric acid, kidney trouble, liver complaint, indigestion, etc.

No one knows what uric acid is—ask your family physician.

While you are talking to him, ask about these "cures" at the same time. You have a lot of faith in his opinion.

Rheumatism is a serious disease—with more serious conditions following if not checked in time. It often doubles one up, brings on all sorts of misery, makes life almost unbearable.

Nine cases out of ten require no internal treatment at all.

Do not fill your system with these "cures" until you have tried

Noah's Liniment

You may be one of the nine that can be helped by it—Noah's Liniment is an external treatment.

You would, if a sufferer, give $5.00 as quickly as $1.00 for something that would help you. All I ask you to do is to try one large size bottle of Noah's Liniment. If it does not benefit you your dealer is authorized to give back your money.

Where there is not any swelling or fever Noah's Liniment will no doubt help you. Requires very little rubbing, penetrates and does not evaporate like most external remedies.

If you have read thus far you will be more interested to continue. I have personally investigated many of the testimonials for Noah's Liniment.

Not long ago I went to Charleston, S. C., to look into a remarkable case. This man, Mr. John P. Daly, was unable to raise his right arm for more than ten years until he had used Noah's Liniment. Mr. Daly is 68 years old, and is well and favorably known in Charleston. He has resided there most of his life and was a veteran in the civil war. Mr. Daly told me his sister requested a sample by mail; then he states he purchased a 25c size bottle, and then a $1.00 bottle, and a little more than the latter made a perfect cure.

Louis B. Martin

Noah Remedy Company

Mr. Daly's Statement

"I suffered with rheumatism in my right arm and shoulder, complicated with a partial paralysis of the nerves. I tried numerous preparations with only partial relief, suffering intense pain all the time, loss of appetite, insomnia and was reduced to a mere skeleton. Fortunately I learned of Noah's Liniment and began its use. Although I could not raise my arm, after using a little more than a large size bottle I feel that I am completely cured and my old self again. Cannot too strongly recommend Noah's Liniment."—John P. Daly, Charleston, S. C.

From a Prominent Business Man of Alexandria, Va.

"I have been using Noah's Liniment in a very bad case of rheumatism, and have found it very beneficial in removing the pain, and believe it to be a valuable remedy. I recommend it to all sufferers in that line."—J. Matthews.

Cured of Sciatic Rheumatism

"Every winter for the past few years I have been troubled with sciatic rheumatism, and had used nearly every liniment and remedy known. I used one bottle of Noah's Liniment, and haven't been troubled with pain since."—J. E. Emerson, Prop. Globe Stamp Works, Boston, Mass.

Cured of Bone Rheumatism

"I had been suffering with bone rheumatism for about three years. I have been using Noah's Liniment, and will say that it cured me completely. Can walk better than I have in two years. Noah's Liniment will do all you claim. I cannot recommend it high enough."—S. E. Cyrus, Donald, S. C.

RARE CHINESE ART SHOWN IN LONDON

Wonderful Specimens of Shen Shao An's Gold Lacquer Draw Crowds of Collectors.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] London, August 23.—Very little is known about the famous gold lacquer of Foochow, in consequence of the unrest and trouble through which China has been passing a collection of this lacquer has found its way to London for the first time.

Debenham and Freebody, in Wigmore street, W., are now exhibiting a splendid collection of these unique and superb works of Chinese art.

Hundreds of people are going to see the ware daily. A representative of The Times-Dispatch called there this afternoon, when some of the most beautiful specimens were shown and explained. The pieces, for the most part, run in pairs with prices from $75 to $500. One or two of the large single jars are valued at $1,000 or more.

It is impossible to exaggerate the beauty in coloring and the delicacy in outline of many of these vessels. There is a peacock jar in blue-green lacquer which is superbly decorated, having the bird standing on a rock beneath the blossoms and branches of the plum tree with sprays of the peony, among which flutter gorgeous butterflies and insects.

Another very beautiful jar is pear-shaped, the foundation color being an exquisite translucent pale silver blue. The decoration consists of two Ho-ho birds.

Kwan-Yin, goddess of Mercy and Grace, is an exquisite figure molded from the clay by the medium of silk, heavily and richly lacquered in a light bronze gold color. The figure stands upon a sacred lotus flower, surrounded by waves of human turmoil and unrest. Other figures are equally beautiful and uncommon.

A word as to the origin of this lacquer is needed to comprehend the full significance of its value. The gold lacquer of Foochow takes its origin from Shen Shao An, the great Chinese artist, who lived 300 years ago in Foochow, the capital of Fokien Province, South China.

Shen Shao An's patent was due to the discovery of combining pure gold with certain pigments and resin of trees, which, being placed upon specially prepared wood and reacted upon by the atmosphere, produced the most beautiful and curious color effects, equal in lustre and beauty to the finest porcelain or fine cloisonne. They were softer in tone, however, and of surpassing smoothness.

Though legions of experts the world over have been endeavoring to unravel the secret of this wonderful art, the Shen family have retained it for three centuries, and no one has yet successfully imitated the famous "Shen Shao An" lacquer, which stands at the head of Chinese art.

N. & W. Terminals Inspected. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Norfolk, Va., August 23.—L. E. Johnson, president, and A. C. Needles, general manager, of the Norfolk and Western Railway, came to Norfolk yesterday and made an inspection of their terminals here, which are being largely expanded.

E. M. Graham, general agent and superintendent of terminals, said that Mr. Johnson has been off on his vacation for some time, and, aside from observing the progress of the terminal expansion work at Lambert's Point, wanted to have a look at this end of the line.

Sold at Public Auction. Amherst, Va., August 23.—H. L. Page and S. E. Harding, trustees, yesterday offered for sale at auction the real estate and stock of goods owned by the Amherst Supply Company. Both stock and real estate were purchased by Ainslie-Martin Company, of Lynchburg, at the price of $4,500 for the former, and $2,825 cash, and the assumption of a $5,000 mortgage for the latter. Mr. Martin, a member of the firm of Ainslie-Martin Company, will conduct the business at Amherst.

YEGGMEN SENTENCED.

Gastonia, N. C., August 23.—William L. Dunn, alias "Irish Jimmy," was convicted in the Superior Court here yesterday of cracking the safe of the McAden Cotton Mills, at McAdenville, and sentenced to eight years in the State's prison. Dunn says his home is in New York, and it is believed that he belonged to a band of yeggmen that operated in this State several years ago, when their safe at McAdenville was robbed. His wife came here from New York State and was present during the trial.
